DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 22 and 27-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C 103(a) as being unpatentable over Parker (US 5,712,020) in view of Rosner (US 4,474,110).

Parker discloses a method for providing a packing material in the form of decorative grass wherein the packing material comprises a plurality of individual segments (see column 3, lines 33-38). The method disclosed by Parker comprises the steps of providing a roll of material having a printed and embossed patterns disposed on at least a portion of one surface thereof (see column 6, lines 11-17; and column 13, line 66 through column 14, line 1); withdrawing a portion of the material from the roll (see column 14, lines 7-8); slitting the material to provide a slit web (see column 15, lines 40-44); and cutting the web of material to provide a plurality of segments (see column 14, lines 10-14).

Parker does not directly disclose a printed design which creates a three-dimensional printed pattern on a surface of the elongated segments; however, it is well known in the art to print sheet materials with foamable inks (see column 8, lines 28-47 of Rosner).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to print the sheet material of Parker with any known type of ink for the printed design. The application of a foamable ink onto the elongated segments would inherently produce a three-dimensional printed pattern. Furthermore, it is within the level of one having ordinary skill in the art to provide the elongated segments with both foamable and non-foamable inks, depending on the desired appearance of the segments.

Parker also does not disclose that the printed designs or printed materials and the embossing are out of registry; however, this is simply a design choice that would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 11/12/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the printed pattern would crack, flake, blur, and/or stick together, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
